The European Business Schools/Women on Board initiative has today announced at press conferences and via press releases around the world the formal establishment of the Global Board Ready Women (GBRW) searchable database to respond to global corporate governance needs for more gender diversity on publicly quoted company boards in Europe.

During the last year and a half, Europe's leading business schools have been working with the European Commission and Senior Executive Women to produce a Call to Action (05 December 11), Selection Criteria Guidelines and a growing list of now more than 8000 Board Ready Women (07 March /19 June 2012), http://europa.eu/rapid/press-release_IP-12-622_en.htm). This list of 8000 Board Ready Women is currently being migrated into the Global Board Ready Women searchable database.

The "Global Board Ready Women" searchable database list and forum will be administered by the Financial Times Non-Executive Directors' Club on the global business platform, LinkedIn. The Group consists of women who already serve on a board or who are ready to take on a new mandate. All women listed in the Global Board Ready Women (GBRW) searchable database are suitable to be considered for publicly listed company board-level positions and meet a clear set of criteria as developed and defined over the last year and a half by the organization members of the European Business Schools/Women on Board initiative (see below).

In addition, the European Business Schools/Women on Board initiative has arranged for each of the individuals selected for the Global Board Ready Women (GBRW) searchable database to be linked with BoardEx 's Profiles and to access BoardEx's database of more than 500,000 corporations and companies.

Lesley Stephenson, Publisher of the FT Non Executive Directors' Club and member of the European Business Schools/Women on Board initiative commented that the "Global Board Ready Women group launched today will provide executive search firms, companies and investors and those looking to make board appointments with a list of board qualified women. Women in the Group can ensure that their profiles and experience are kept up to date while companies and recruiters can easily search and identify those candidates whose experience most closely match their requirements and contact them directly.”

Sherry Coutu, herself Member of the Advisory Board of LinkedIn commented, "I'm extremely pleased to be part of this initiative to identify and promote the profiles of the board-ready women in the quest for a more transparent and balanced corporate governance. LinkedIn is the perfect platform for this Global Board Ready Women searchable database".

European Commission Vice President Reding commented, "We need to use all of our society's talents to ensure that Europe's economy takes off," said Vice-President Viviane Reding, EU Justice Commissioner. "I often hear the argument that there are not enough qualified women to occupy positions in the boardroom. Today the European Business Schools/Women on Board initiative is shattering those myths as well as glass ceilings! The Global Board Ready Women searchable database currently being populated from the lists of more than 8000 qualified Board Ready Women identified and compiled by them and their colleagues around the world is proof – Companies should now make use of this untapped pool of talent."
